- its less the development/cultivation of separate micro-
ideologies and more the undispersion and
organization of
competing bits,
which can individually
be cultivated?

what constitutes a center? In a
randomly diffused (?) array of bits,
of finite parameters (*),
there must be some area of higher concentration of bits-per-space than other areas of that size. → what determines the size of the area(s) compared? The focal point(?) of the area is the area
is expanded to span the entire
array of bits.

How does this translate to more concrete/practical matters?

- a unit denotes a component of an ideology. The ~~nature~~ quality/type of the unit ($\Delta, X, D, U, \square$) is determined by the ideology it constitutes.

(ideologies "compete"/conflict to generate ~~meta~~ ^{macro} movement (?) by means of co-evolution (spiralectics))

- the efficiency (?) of the competition, and the thoroughness of the synthesis, is ~~heterogeneous~~ correlated to the organization of the competing ideologies classification of bits into ideologies and the...

- "organization" used advisedly, seeing as the "bits" in their ~~abstract~~ practical form, will each serve some particular function in the body of the ideology, rather than their abstract form, in which they are homogenizing in order to highlight the abstract macro-movement resulting from inter-ideological competition, which is optimized by ~~organization~~ the classification of bits.

further clarification

- the "bit," which (hitherto) only exists in this ultimately (?) abstract mode of discourse, is analogous (abstract $\approx$ concrete) ~~to~~ ^{to} an argument (of subjectively irreducible discreteness) consider the infinite recursion of reduplications

- before there is an unlimited array (unlimited vs infinite?) of arguments to be made, there are likewise an unlimited array of bits that can crop up. But, the center of a class of sufficiently coterminous/aligned arguments, the essence of an ideology, is the point around which the ~~core~~ unessential arguments gravitate. Thus, this center must be triangulated (and probably cannot stand as anything but subjective?)

Axiom
- then, is the axiom for this practice that centralization of data is essential to cognitive operations?
